When alphabetizing your citations, go letter by letter and follow the "nothing before something rule".

When you have multiple citations by the same author, you replace the author's name with ---. This can only be done if the authors are exactly the same as the one above it on the list.

The page should be double spaced like the rest of your document. NO extra spaces between citations!

Citations begin at the margin and extra lines are indented 1/2 in. This is called "Hanging Indents" and is set up in the Paragraph settings in Word.
